ABOUT SANDTEX

CONTENTS

There may be several brands in the construction industry boasting a 50 year pedigree, but few claim to serve the very same purpose today as they did when they first appeared in the market. Sandtex® however has stayed true to its origins, and continues to serve the same industry needs in very much the same way as it did in 1961, ie protecting and decorating the nation's external substrates using a system approach.

Originally for sale from the Cement Marketing Company Limited (later to become Blue Circle Industries) in 1961, Sandtex Matt and Sandtex Textured were the two decorative finishes available in the system.

Over the decades Sandtex has gone from strength to strength with the launch of a brand specially developed for professionals. The Sandtex Trade brand and its product portfolio has benefited from extensive investment in research and development, and features state of the art coatings technology. That's why you will find accreditations, anti-carbonation certificates, and 20 years durability claims which ensure our formulations include the most durable, weather resistant and lightfast products money can buy. The Sandtex Trade system now consists of products that encompass wood, metal and even uPVC as well as stone, brick, pebbledash and render, and of course concrete which is where it all began.
